INDIANS DEFEATED BY RICHMOND COLLEGE IN CRUCIAL GAME HERE

Visitors Display Unexpected Accuracy and Speed—Williamsburgers Fight Hard to Win—Murry and Wicker Star—Final Score 28-16

William and Mary's basketball team was defeated here last Wednesday night by Richmond College for the first time in the history of the athletic relations of the two institutions, the final score being 28 to 16.

Throughout the contest the Indians failed to display skill in passing or shooting with the exception of Murry, who registered half the total points of his team's score. The Williamsburg contingent managed to pull through the first half but after the breathing spell and a change of tactics by their opponents the situation was hopelessly reversed. It was clearly evident that Dobson's brain was the deciding factor of the game. Seeing that our guards were instructed to stick with the spider forwards, thus depriving them of an opportunity to shoot, the Richmond coach directed his forwards to pass the ball back to the guards, who were as a rule in a position to shoot, this being particularly true of Wicker. It cannot be said that the guards only task is to play the opposing forward, as the game vindicated. It was a mistake to allow both to follow their men so relentlessly and so be drawn away from the goal so guard Wicker could shoot enough baskets to win the game.

Murry, at forward, did very good work and clearly outclassed his team mates in every department. Geddy was off-color and not up to his usual standard by any means and in this case substitution would have been justified in place of Stephens who was relieved by Mattox.

The game started off the first minute or too without either side scoring then a foul was called on William and Mary and Wood shot goal. Murry put the Indians ahead then by registering a field goal. From then on the two teams were nip and tuck; more interesting from the standpoints of the encounters of the players than from the brand of game played. The first half ended with score, R. C. 12, W. & M. 11.

The Spiders played the game as if they had learned something and then drawing the guards away they sent Wicker down to register 10 points in less than as many minutes, having an open half court.

At the present writing the outlook is not very bright but we hope there is better luck in store for us. The team needs to be worked and worked hard. We would like to suggest having one of the guards, at least, stay back under the goal instead of following the forwards all the time.

The line-up and Summary:

W. & M.	Position	R. C.

BRAFFERTON CLUB MEETS

At eleven o'clock last Wednesday night a distinct tremor went through the walls of Brafferton. The lights suddenly went out and as suddenly came on. By it terrified pale-faces looked at one another for the war-hoop echoed through the halls. The Indians were on the warpath, and each venturesome stranger was summoned to the wigwam where all were addressed by the mighty chief of Brafferton, and it soon became apparent that for the next year Mr. P. N. Deering would be Great Wirawance; Mr. A. L. Garland, Wirawance of Bombasta; Mr. B. H. Seekford, Wirawance of Figaros; Mr. A. C. Hagerman, Wirawance of Sycorax; "Duc" H. L. Duff, Cronochoe, of Bombastile; Duc. D. B. Stuart, Cronochoe of Sycorax; and Mr. W. H. Cheatham, Oapiqueschiphotom-basse.

"Duc" Tyler and "Young" Nickolson were chosen as members of the tribe and will be made to drink of the blood of the chiefs of old at their capture.

VESPER SERVICE

DR. BUCHANAN OF RICHMOND SPEAKS

Social Worker Talks on "Meekness"—Glee Club, Quartet Sing—Meeting Well Attended
—Next Vesper Service in March

"You must have a dominating principle in your lives" declared Dr. James Buchanan, President of the Associated Charities of Richmond, in his address here Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. In addition to this short talk selections were rendered by the Glee Club and College Quartet in a most pleasing manner.

The speaker after reading the Beatitudes selected for his theme, "Blessed are the Meek." In applying this principle to modern life, he pointed out the necessity for submission to the divine law and that the great inventions of this age have not disregarded law but have been produced in accordance with law. "What law was changed," said Dr. Buchanan, "when the steamship was launched upon the ocean? What law was changed when man began to soar in the heavens as the birds? I want to urge you to submission to the divine law of Christ, to meekness. You must have this dominating principle if you want to make your lives count, because God with his power will be triumphant not only today, but forever and forever."

The next Vesper Services will be held the second Sunday in March. The speaker has not yet been announced.

JANUARY LITERARY MAGAZINE

REVIEWED BY PROFESSOR GEIGER

The January number of the William and Mary Literary Magazine contains the usual assortment of verses, stories and essays. There are two poems, two short stories and three or four critical and appreciate sketches of the literary efforts of such men as Machiavelli, Henry Timrod, the Southern poet, and William Cullen Bryan.

Both of the poems are good. The one on "The Birth of Day" is a trifle vague perhaps; but as a description of the coming of dawn, it is simple, unaffected and more or less adequate. When young writers of verse are able to achieve good

MID-YEAR GERMAN

GIVEN FRIDAY NIGHT IN GYMNASIUM

Brilliant Social Event Closes Winter Season of Club—Dance Spirit Reaches High Mark
Many Visitors Present

On Friday evening last the William and Mary College German Club gave its annual Mid-winter German in the College Gymnasium, bringing to a brilliant close the winter season of the club.

The Hall was beautifully decorated with the college colors and fraternity banners. Music was furnished by Hulcher's Orchestra, of Norfolk, and this combined with the fascinating personalities produced an atmosphere of merry revelry which was reflected in the spirit of the devotees of the dance art.

As the happy couples moved in rhythm around the floor to the time of the music, the gorgeous costumes of the ladies, in the softly shaded lights blended into an ever-changing effect that was most charming to behold.

Dancing began at half past eight o'clock and continued until one. We feel justified in saying that this was one of the most enjoyable dances of the season, when we recall the merriment of the participants and the smiles of the spectators who remained in the galleries until the rendition of "Home, Sweet Home."

Among the visiting ladies were: Miss Ruth Ford, Newport News; Miss Laura Wright, Richmond; Miss Bessie Blassenham, Newport News; Miss Fentress, Norfolk; Miss Stark, Richmond; Miss Sames, Newport News; Miss Anne Faulkner, South Boston; Miss Ola Chanell, Smithfield; Miss Josephine Harrison, Richmond; Miss Elizabeth Cottrell, Newport News; Miss Moore, Richmond; Miss Caroline Pope, Emporia; Miss Margaret Tyler, Sturgeon Point; Miss Laura Ives, Portsmouth; Miss Eloise Weaver, Norfolk; Miss Anne Booker, Hampton; Miss Justice Inge, Petersburg; Miss Lillie Hargrove, Newport News; Miss Laura Cornellee, Wilmington, Del.; Miss Marian Lewis, West Point; Miss Lucile Catalin, Hampton; Miss Arnette Tyler, Richmond; Miss Dorothy Gardner, Richmond; Miss Dorothy Philipps, Newport News.

MILITARY TRAINING

In view of the recent agitation for the introduction of military training at William and Mary, it would be well for every student to familiarize himself with some of the conditions upon which the services of an army officer for that purpose may be secured. Below is an extract from a bulletin sent out from the adjutant General's office, Washington, D. C., which will help to throw light upon this subject.

"I. The following requirements are necessary to be fulfilled by institutions before the detail of an army officer can be made and arms and certain ordnance equipment issued:

(d). The authorities of the institution must assure the War Department that military instruction shall be compulsory for all physically qualified students for a period of at least two years and for not less than 84 hours per academic year.

(e) The authorities must agree to uniform the students, at other than government expense, in neat, well fitting uniforms of a pattern and style now in vogue at other institutions of the same class and kind (See Act of Congress approved July 17, 1914).

(f) That the officers so detailed shall be a member of the Faculty with the same privileges as those granted the heads of other departments of the institution.

(h) That the course of method of training will be as prescribed by the War Department and the details of same left in the hands of the officer so detailed. A suitable class room should be provided."

UNNECESSARY APPLAUSE

Applause at the proper time is an ear-mark of courtesy. Applause at the wrong time is an unnecessary noise. The average individual of polite society knows when, where and how much recognition of this nature should be shown, and we would not indict those, who stamp on the floor when a student is late coming into class or shake the walls of the Chapel when a professor makes some announcement, on the grounds of not knowing but of not thinking. Remember that there are times when you should be seen and not heard. A noise at this time may be excusable with children but is intolerant with college students. Furthermore, stamping is not the modern device of applause, and should be restricted to the fly season.

INDIANS DEFEAT FAIRMONT

William and Mary had little trouble defeating the Fairmont Athletic Club Saturday night by the score of 37 to 23. The game was more interesting than the score indicates, and it was not until the middle of the final period that the Indians drew away to the front. Up to that time the Fairmont players had been close upon their heels.

The absence of Gayle and Metcalf from the visiting line-up was noticeable, and had considerable effect upon the team work. Murry, for the Indians, and Green, for Fairmont, played exceptionally well, each of them scoring the greatest number of points for their respective teams. The Indian forward basketed the ball ten times, while Green made seven baskets for the visitors.

The Indians played better than at any time during the season, and should give the Yellow Jackets a hard contest next Wednesday when they meet at Ashland.

The line-up:

W. & M. Position Fairmont
Geddy.....l f.....Green
Murry.....r f.....Antwistle
Robertson.....c.....Perkins
Goslee.....l g.....Thacker
Stephens.....r g.....Lawrence

Substitutions—Mattox for Stephens. Goals from field—Geddy, 3; Murry, 10; Robertson, 2; Goslee; Mattox; Green, 7; Perkins, 2; Lawrence. Goals from foul—Geddy, Murry 2, Green 3. Referee, Ferguson.

PI KAPPA ALPHA RECEPTION

Saturday night after the basketball game the "goats" of Pi Kappa Alpha gave their annual reception to the members of Gamma Chapter and friends. The affair was staged at the Colonial Inn which was prepared especially for the occasion. It was informally arranged in cabaret style, supper being served to the couples at small side tables while dancing was kept up during the entire evening. A number of out-of-town visitors were present.

JANUARY LITERARY MAGAZINE REVIEWED BY PROFESSOR GEIGER

effects in description or in the expression of the more obvious forms of passion or sentiment, they should confine their efforts to this sort of things. Highly abstract ideas are very difficult to present so as to be intelligible to others, even when they are intelligible to the writer himself. For example, the author of the verses in question makes the 'Dawn' say: "In me I bring, immaculate of birth, Divinity, the spirit of the Pure." We cannot help wondering whether such expressions as 'Divinity' and 'the spirit of the Pure' contain any intelligible content for the average youth, poet though he be. Certainly in this case our poet has not succeeded in conveying to the reader any very definite meaning. Poetic license is license indeed when the poet feels free to expatiate on themes whose import must of necessity transcend his immature and limited experience.

The verses entitled 'The Tide of Years' are not so pretentious. The theme is one of the most universal and hence one of the most intelligible aspects of our present day experience namely, the longing for universal peace. Both on account of the universal appeal that it makes and on account of the simple and unaffected manner of its expression, the poem deserves to be cut out and pasted in our scrap books.

The two short stories are entitled respectively, "A World-Win Proposal" and "A Truthless Case." Both of these titles are attempts at a play on words and are, we believe, rather far fetched. The stories themselves, however, are cleverly conceived and are well told.

The essays on "Niccola Machiavelli," "Henry Timrod" and "William Cullen Bryan" are without exception interesting and readable. The writers of these essays, as well as the authors of the two short stories referred to above, are to be commended for making their points or for telling their stories with such brevity.

There is an interesting reference, under the section entitled "Alumni," to a set of volumes on the life of John Marshall, being brought out by Ex-Senator Beveridge, of Indiana. John Marshall, as every one knows, was an alumnus of William and Mary, and this fact makes Mr. Beveridge's book doubly important for William and Mary students who are historically inclined.

Vernon Geddy (Philosophizing):—"A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer."

Pete James:—"Good, that's just why I flunked my examination."

Ben Seekford: -Dr., what will your course in International Law consist of this time?

Dr. Tyler:—"Target practice only."

SOPH BANQUET

Experience and observation have helped us solve the banquet. We know the creature by heart. It is always staged by progressive would be's. Every banquet is the best ever. This is tactfully understood.

The various committees have several objects. The committee on menu is the real rip-snorter. It is made up of language students and dictionary delvers with a society twist. They do their dumdest and the menu looks it. If anybody can decipher the menu the banquet is a failure.

The committee on victuals gets the next whack. They select the liquid and solid torture and match it with the names. This committee is mostly made up of would-be cooks and the results show it. Their object is to serve as little as possible, but to make that little last. It generally does. We know a case where it lasted forever. This banquet was a success.

At a banquet nobody can eat in peace. There is the gaseous torture. This is the worst. Just as you have discovered a microscopic salad on your plate a toast is announced. You look for the toast, but see that you have been fooled. It is a gassy toast. You have lost your salad in the bargain. It cannot be rediscovered. Perhaps a fly has put it in its pocket. This performance is served in relays on some occasions. On others the gassy part comes last. This is fortunate, for you can sleep thru this torture. No matter when this part comes, it is awful. The eats are generally as bad as the names. The whole thing is rotten, but you praise everything. As a result the banquet is a great success. Why? Because everybody says so. -Exchange.

Y.M.C.A. RECEPTION

DELIGHTFUL AND UNIQUE PROGRAM

Moorman Impeaches Hastings — Lunenburg Anthem Rendered by Reeves — Prof. Crawford Receives Hopkins Special

On last Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the college dining hall the Y. M. C. A. held its first reception of this term. Several members of the faculty and many students were present. The affair was entirely informal, and to this may be attributed one of the reasons why it was so thoroughly enjoyed.

The impromptu speeches and stunts that were "pulled off" were humorous and much appreciated, as were the songs rendered by the college glee club and quartet, which occasionally sent floating through the air strains of quasi-Hawaiian music.

Mr. Simms introduced with appropriate words the speaker of the evening, Mr. Geo. Ferguson, who spoke very eloquently upon and solved very philosophically the problem, "Why Williamsburg Still Sleeps." After this the first course of refreshments, consisting of "all-night suckers," was served, while "B. C." Rives and "Sister" Underwood very kindly consented to let the audience enjoy their talents, the former rendering in fine style the famous Lunenburg anthem, "The Cat Came Back."

After a few original jokes had been told on members of the faculty and student body Mr. Moorman very characteristically impeached Warren Hastings. Mr. Seekford then with "candid" remarks presented to Prof. Crawford, in behalf of the Y. M. C. A., a barber-pole stick of candy of unusual size, in recognition of his valuable services both to the college and Y. M. C. A.

After some exhibition dances by "negroes" Parish, Hobson and Bland and a set or two of square dancing the students sang "Alma Mater" and the jolly crowd disbanded.

PERSONAL MENTION

Among the old students dancing last Friday night were: P. P. Taylor, J. W. Stephens, and A. Beale.

Thomas, of the Academy, who has been quite indisposed for some time, has returned home.

elson spent the week end in Staunton.

A. L. Garland has been confined to his room for several days, but is out again.

W. W. Johnson spent Saturday and Sunday at his home near Portsmouth.

Roy Ellis was visited by his brother, of Newport News, last week.

Reid spent Sunday in Richmond.

W. B. Tilly left Saturday afternoon to stay a few days with his parents in Norfolk.
